Of course! I forgot that the government was closed today, since you all work all the time.

I can check tomorrow or once the government opens again.

Yes, thanks so much for this. Whether we use it right away probably depends on whether we write anything about travel today, but either way, it's a great comparison for future stories.

I had just two specific questions. One is regarding the Paris trip of McCarthy's you list here. I know she stayed in the airport hotel during that entire trip (which was for the UNFCCC COP) because everyone stayed there except for John Kerry, who stayed in Paris itself. Which hotel did the administrator stay during that overnight stay in Paris on Dec. 10, is that something you can share? I don't see it on the voucher.

Also, I noticed that there seems to be a calculation for the CO2 emissions of every flight on these vouchers. Is that some EPA-specific policy, or perhaps a government-wide policy adopted under the previous administration? It just struck me as a little odd, I don't think that shows up on my own airline travel receipts.

Thanks, Juliet
